

MENS HEALTH CHECK

Did you know? The average life expectancy for Australian men is almost five years less than women. Every hour, more than 4 men die from potentially preventable conditions in Australia.

Here at Princess Park Clinic we care about all the men out there, and so we have developed a health program specifically designed for busy men who wish to do something about improving their health. Our preventative health philosophy aims to identify risks and put strategies in place to prevent ill health. If a health problem exists, then by detecting the problem early we can aim for better management of the problem, and minimise complications.
